TULSA ATTORNEY HELD ON CHARGE OF TAKING BONDS

Taken to Federal Jail After Arrested by Authorities at Tulsa.

ANOTHER INVOLVED

Charged With Disposing of Stolen Argentine Government Bonds.

(By the Associated Press)
TULSA, June 22.—Walter Chitwood, a young Indian attorney of this city, and Con Sullivan, described by federal authorities as a wealthy gambler of Tulsa and Ft. Smith, Arkansas, are in the federal jail at Muskogee today following the recovery late yesterday of $14,000 in Argentine government bonds. The arrests were made late yesterday by a private detective. Although the men were apprehended on busy streets, they went without resistance to federal headquarters where they were questioned, according to United States officers. Chitwood was said to have made a confession involving the operations of a gang here which has been disposing of stolen securities obtained by holdups and bank robberies from New York to San Francisco.

Taken to Muskogee
Federal authorities said that arrest of other members of the gang may be expected soon. Charges were to be placed against Chitwood and Sullivan at Muskogee today. An official here said that they would probably be charged with "possession of stolen bonds." When stolen bonds were in registered mail sacks, according to federal officers.

It was indicated that the confession involved a prominent Oklahoma banker with large interests in several cities of the state, who is suspected of being the leader of the gang.

Officials stated that they believed that several hundred thousand dollars worth of stolen bonds are in possession of members of the gang in this vicinity.

Less than an hour after Chitwood and Sullivan were arrested, they were en route to Muskogee under guard. Their arrests were made quietly and secrecy was maintained until after they left the city. Families and friends of the pair were not notified.

Authorities said Chitwood when confronted with the evidence against the gang, broke down and outlined in detail its operations.

MUSKOGEE, June 22.—Walter M. Chitwood and Con Sullivan were taken before R. M. Mountcastle, United States commissioner, immediately upon their arrival from Tulsa today. An information charging possession of matter stolen from the U. S. mails was filed against them. The commissioner ordered the men held under bond of $7,500 each. They were still in jail at two p. m.

PLACE FOR HOLDING OF REVIVAL MEET CHANGED

The revival meeting to begin next Sunday evening by the First Baptist Church will be held under the skating rink tent on East Main Street next to Hale-Haisell Wholesale Grocery Co., building instead of Chautauqua grounds as has been announced. This change has been made for the reason that it was feared that the chautauqua grounds are too far out for the people who live on the West side. The new location is more accessible to all the people. The rink was secured through the kindness of Mr. Nance who owns it.

A crew of men are at work now getting it in shape and by Sunday evening it will be well lighted and well seated and otherwise made comfortable. The pastor will preach Sunday morning at the church on the subject, "The Human Element in a Successful Revival," and at night the service will be held at the skating rink and the subject will be, "The Tragedy of the Wrecks of Sin." There will be a large chorus choir present and two pianos will be used throughout the meeting. The public is invited to be present at the first service and all the succeeding services.

Sunday school will be at the church as usual and the young people's societies will be held at the church each Sunday evening at seven o'clock.

The cement industry, to maintain the necessary stock of 200,000,000 sacks, orders yearly 30,000,000 new ones.

DAUGHERTY TO OPPOSE COAL STRIKE BOYCOTT

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Any attempt by the United Mine Workers of America in combination with unions of foreign countries to prevent shipment of coal from abroad into the United States during the progress of a coal strike here will be "resisted by the United States government," Attorney General Daugherty declared in a letter to the federal coal commission. The attorney general declared his attention has been called to "what is said to be a contract" of the miners' union in the United States and "certain officials of similar organizations in foreign countries" to provide for such a checking of coal shipments during strikes. He asked the coal commission to give him any facts it might learn "in order that such action may be taken as is justifiable."

Nagle and Langston Wrangle Over Mission of League in Politics.

BLAKE DENIES CHARGE Governor Denies Charge That He is Dominated by League Leaders.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, June 22.—A statement declaring that the controversy between Pat Nagle, socialist leader, and J. Luther Langston, manager of the Farmer-Labor Reconstruction League, is "not my fight" and indicating that such dissension within the Farmer-Labor movement is fostered by unfriendly interests, was issued here today by Gov. J. C. Walton.

The governor declared that both Nagle and Langston were his friends and denying that he was dominated by no one. The statement follows: "The controversy between Pat Nagle and J. Luther Langston is not my fight and I have nothing to do with it. The enemy would like to see a real fight going on. If one faction is on top they oppose it and help the other. They are seeking to destroy the Farmer-Labor movement."

"The idea that I am dominated by any faction is all poppycock. I am dominated by no group or individual, but by the desire to serve the farmers and workers of Oklahoma. I do not oppose either Nagle or Langston. They are both my friends. I am always glad to have friendly advice from any source, but recent report that any one dominates me or are seeking to do so."

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 22.—Charges that he was a partner of Pat Nagle in a conspiracy to destroy the Farm-Labor Reconstruction League made yesterday by J. Luther Langston, League manager, was characterized today by Aldrich Blake secretary to Gov. Walton, as an "annoyance like the buzz of a mosquito in the early morning hours, but of no other consequence." Langston's statement was made in reply to an attack by Nagle on Farm-Labor conferees at the meeting held Monday in response to a call by Gov. Walton. Nagle declared that it "refused to give relief to the economic ills the governor cited in his call."

QUAPAW INDIANS MUST PAY INCOME TAXES

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 22.—Quapaw Indians dwelling in Oklahoma must pay income taxes on revenues derived from allotted or inherited lands under a decision rendered today by the treasury department. The lands recently have become immensely valuable as a result of the discovery of rich lodes of lead and zinc, and Secretary Mellon held that the rents and royalties are "profits issuing from the land" and constitute incomes in accordance with the terms of the federal revenue acts.

INJUNCTION WOULD KEEP SECRETS FROM WOMEN

(By the Associated Press)
ATLANTA, June 22.—A temporary injunction restraining William Joseph Simmons, Emperor of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and others from revealing the secrets and ritual of the Klan to the newly organized Knights of Kameha was signed late yesterday by Judge J. O. Humphries, it became known today. The order was issued in response to a petition filed by representatives of the Klan faction headed by H. W. Evans, Imperial Wizard.

Demo Chieftains Plan Strategy To Control Party Convention

Leaders Map Out Control of Convention Vote for Election.

By George M. Heil.
An "entente cordiale" which may wield the balance of power in the next Democratic national convention is believed in the making as a result of an almost continuous series of political pow-wows now being held at French Lick, Ind.

Of course no formal statements have been issued for the enlightenment of the public. They wouldn't be considered good form at this stage of the game in the best political circles.

But nevertheless the veteran strategists, sometimes termed "bosses," wise in the ways of things political now are busily engaged in bidding fences to hold a balance of power which can be loosed on the Democratic convention at the moment deemed psychological.

The two-thirds rule which governs Democratic conventions makes it possible for any combination that can sew up 366 votes—based on the representation of 1920—to deadlock the convention.

Shrewd political observers believe that the alignment process to insure the necessary 366 last ditch delegates is under way, but the exact shape of the alignment isn't apparent at this stage.

Tammany's Chief Wants Union
Some reports have it that Tammany Charlie Murphy, represented at French Lick by Gov. Al Smith of New York, looks with favor on a political alliance with Senator Oscar Underwood. This would unite the delegates of the solid south and the thirsty east into a solid bloc, nearly 500 strong, which could effectively halt the convention in its tracks.

While the south is reckoned as dry, it is pointed out that Tammany made a bid for southern support when Smith signed the enforcement repealer and accompanied his signature with an exhaustive argument in favor of state's rights, an issue dear to the heart of every southerner.

Tammany is said to be convinced that as between the old state's rights proposition and prohibition the south would forego the latter to resurrect the issue for which their forefathers fought and died. Of course the entrance of Henry Ford into the political lists would serve to weaken Underwood's hold on the southern delegates.

Lineup of States
But without the defection that Ford's candidacy would cause, sponsors of the Tammany-Underwood alliance believe the lineup would be something like this:

| | | | |
|---------------|----|--------------|-----|
| Alabama | 24 | New Jersey | 28 |
| Arkansas | 18 | New York | 30 |
| Connecticut | 14 | N. Carolina | 14 |
| Delaware | 6 | Rhode Island | 10 |
| Florida | 12 | S. Carolina | 18 |
| Georgia | 28 | Tennessee | 24 |
| Kentucky | 26 | Texas | 40 |
| Louisiana | 20 | Virginia | 24 |
| Maryland | 16 | W. Virginia | 16 |
| Massachusetts | 16 | | |
| Mississippi | 20 | Total | 484 |

Should this "entente" fall by the wayside there is another. This would bring together three of the shrewdest political leaders in the Dem ranks: Tom Taggart of Indiana, George Brennan of Illinois and Murphy, and Probably Underwood.

This trio probably could swing the convention if it became necessary to trot out a convention dark horse.

Three Deadlocks Mentioned
Smith, Underwood and William G. McAduff, it is believed in well informed circles, will lead lock the convention. Then the Underwood delegates could be shifted to Smith or vice versa, according to the pre-arranged plans of the entente strategists.

In this event that this maneuver fails to break the deadlock, Taggart, who to all appearances is playing shrewd politics with the candidacy of Senator Samuel M. Ralston, may offer the Hoosier solon as a dark horse.

Then according to the usual procedure, when it became apparent that neither Smith nor Underwood could be put over the united support of the Taggart-Brennan-Murphy combination should be sufficient to put Ralston over.

Political observers profess to see in Taggart's recent disclaimer of the candidacy of Ralston a back-handed confirmation of this line of strategy.

Seasoned politicians know that a premature boom is the surest way of killing off a presidential possibility and they believe that it is Taggart's aim to keep Ralston out of the limelight as much as possible.

His candidacy may never be announced. His name may be merely presented before the convention at the psychological moment. And Ralston's friends believe he will capture the nomination as did Harding in the Republican convention of 1920.

GARR RECOGNIZES TWO SULPHUR HI-JACKERS

Emmett and Jim Hendricks of Sulphur were placed under arrest here late yesterday afternoon on a charge of hi-jacking referred to the county through the personal attention of Grover Garr, victim of the holdup at Sulphur.

Garr, who was frisked by a band of men at Sulphur recently recognized the brothers as members of the party when they landed here off a north bound train. He took personal charge of them and escorted the pair to the county sheriff's office where he caused charges to be filed against them.

Garr was called to Sulphur this morning to identify three others who were arrested and are being held there in connection with hi-jacking activities.

The Hendricks brothers made no statement to the charges.

BRITISH VESSEL DEFIES U. S. LAW FOR LIQUOR LID

Baltic Steams into Port With Return Store of Booze on Board.

NATION IN ANXIETY

British Government Maintains Her Authority Ends at Three Mile Limit.

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 22.—While treasury department officials today concentrated their attention on the Berengaria, the Baltic slipped into quarantine with 6,182 bottles of liquor under British government seal for her next east bound voyage in defiance of American dry regulations.

Upon announcement that the Berengaria was coming here today with sealed liquor to test the treasury department ruling that no liquor except for medicinal purposes be permitted across the three mile limit, Secretary Mellon ordered federal agents to board the British liner and seize the wet goods. The fact that the White Star liner, Baltic, was to fight the regulations was apparently unknown to American officials, for no dry agents were at quarantine to meet her. Officials of the custom house declined to state whether the Baltic supplies would be seized.

A few bottles for the west bound voyage that were unconsumed were dumped overboard when the Baltic reached the three-mile limit. It is a question what action by the American authorities may be expected when the captain of the Baltic presents himself at the custom house with his manifest showing goods aboard for the return voyage.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Treasury officials arriving at their desks this morning found the British steamer Baltic, had arrived unexpectedly at New York with a supply of liquor under seal and declared that the New York custom officials had instructions to seize all such stores and that there would be no question as to their authority to proceed against the Baltic.

LONDON, June 22.—In connection with the arrival of the liner Berengaria at New York, it was declared in well informed quarters here that the British government in no way challenges the authority of the American officials to break the British consular seal affixed illegally being recognized that the jurisdiction of the British government ends once the three-mile limit is passed.

LOCAL ATTORNEY HELD ON CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

W. F. Schulte Alleged to Have Appropriated Funds of Tax Payers to Use.

RELEASED ON BOND

Case Outgrowth of Suit Filed Year Ago Alleging Misuse of Funds.

Preliminary hearing on the charge of embezzlement of funds paid by certain tax payers on Pontotoc county, W. F. Schulte, local attorney, agent and collector in that interest, will be held before Justice Joseph Anderson July 2.

Warrant for the arrest of Schulte was served late Thursday afternoon and his bond fixed by Justice Anderson at $3,000, which was arranged by his bondsmen, T. A. Stewart, Ed. G. G. W. B. Alexander and E. S. Collins. Justice Anderson approved the bond and ordered the release the same day.

The case is the outgrowth of a suit filed about a year ago by Schulte as attorney after the county commissioners had refused the demand of ten or twelve tax payers that suit be filed against the First National Bank, D. F. Coleman, trustee, and a large number of others for the recovery of sums paid them following a judgment against the county and issuance of funding bonds to pay claims allowed. The petitioners charged that the proceedings were illegal hence demanded the return of twice the sum paid out, or in the neighborhood of $115,000. Half of this sum, if recovered, would go to the county and half to the petitioners, according to the commissioners.

It is alleged that a settlement was made with the bank recently and that the county's share of $2,500 was not turned over. The complaint was made by J. I. Laughlin, chairman of the board of commissioners.

Commissioner Stephens stated that civil action will also be started against all who received a part of the money unless a settlement is made.

Attorney Schulte stated this morning that he had nothing to say at the present time concerning the charges brought against him.

Before me—Joseph Anderson, justice of peace, in and for said county and state, personally appeared J. I. McLaughlin, who being duly sworn said that on about the day of June, 1923, and before the making and filing of this complaint in the county of Pontotoc, State of Oklahoma, one W. F. Schulte, late of Pontotoc county, State of Oklahoma, did commit the crime of embezzlement in the manner and form as follows:

This is to say that the said defendant in the county and state aforesaid, on the day and date aforesaid, was then and there the attorney of record for the plaintiff in certain tax payer's suits and cause of action of the action filed by him in the district court of Pontotoc county, State of Oklahoma, on the day of June, 1923, said suits and causes of action being numbered _____ and _____ respectively, which said suits and causes of action were then and there instituted by said defendant for certain tax payers in and for Pontotoc county, Oklahoma, to recover certain money and property alleged to have been unlawfully and fraudulently misappropriated and spent by said board of county commissioners and other persons mentioned in the petitions thereof that said defendant was then and there the attorney, agent and collector for each, all and every person or municipality having right, title or interest in the money or property or penalties which might be collected or come into his hands by reason of said tax payers suit aforesaid and by virtue thereof was then and there the trustee of each, all and every person and municipality for all money or property coming into his hands or under his control belonging to them by reason of said suits aforesaid; that by virtue of being such trustee, attorney, agent and collector the said defendant, W. F. Schulte, was then and there entrusted with and had possession and control of twenty-five hundred dollars of good and lawful money of the United States of America, which was then and there paid to him, the said W. F. Schulte, by the First National Bank of Ada, Oklahoma, a corporation, one of the defendants of the taxpayers suit, which said twenty-five hundred dollars was of the value of twenty-five hundred dollars, and was then and there the property and money belonging to Pontotoc county, Oklahoma and the people thereof and which said sum of money came into the hands, possession and control of the said W. F. Schulte by virtue of his said trust aforesaid as

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—On the isolated Meager ranch, on the southern border, Deborah Meredith, trained nurse, is in attendance on Mrs. Meager, whose husband has recently been killed, victim of an accident. Immediately after the death, Bob Meager, Mrs. Meager's stepson, arrives and takes possession. He insults Deborah and she resolves to leave, but there seems no possibility of her getting away alone.

CHAPTER II.—Meager gloats over Deborah's plight, telling her he has sent for a justice of the peace, who will marry them tomorrow. Horrified, the girl secures a revolver.

CHAPTER III.—The justice, Cornelius Garrity, surrounded and bosom friend of Meager, arrives with a party, among them the "Frisco Kid," notorious desperado. The girl locks herself up.

CHAPTER IV.—Forced by Bob, Mrs. Meager decoys Deborah from the room and despite her protests the justice performs the marriage ceremony. Immediately afterward, she escapes and reaches her room.

CHAPTER V.—Meager seeks the girl, but she turns him with the revolver and rushes to the stables, hoping to secure a horse and escape, and where away from Meager, if she must die in the desert. In the stables she meets the "Frisco Kid." Somehow he inspires her with confidence and she explains the situation, he not having been present at the wedding.

CHAPTER VI.—The "Kid" tells her his name is Daniel Kelleen, that he is no friend of Meager, and securing two horses, the pair ride into the desert.

CHAPTER VII.—Alone with Kelleen, the girl becomes somewhat apprehensive, but he tells her of his service in France, where Deborah had been a nurse, and she puts full faith in him.

CHAPTER VIII.—Kelleen explains that the "Frisco Kid" is a manufactured character, that he is really a captain in the regular army, detailed to run down a gang of thieves and smugglers of arms into Mexico, among them Meager and Garrity.

CHAPTER IX.—While the girl is sleeping, exhausted, Kelleen disappears. Later, from a hiding place, he secures her, and with Juan Sanchez, associate of Meager, and from the conversation she believes Kelleen to be really a member of the gang. Her apprehensions returned, she seeks to escape, but is seized by a concealed man.

CHAPTER X.—Deborah's captor carries her to what is apparently a cave. Feeling he has her securely a prisoner, the man releases his watchfulness, and she seeks a way of escape. Exploring the cave she finds the body of a dead man, who had been shot in the back. From him she takes a revolver. Finding a passage, which apparently leads to the open air, the girl is almost free when her guard returns and fires at her. She returns the shot and after a time succeeds in finding her way out of the cave.

All the girl could do was to remain silently where she lay behind that cluster of sage. It was already growing dusk, and shadows hung over the gully, becoming deeper with every passing moment. If she had escaped observation so far she would soon be perfectly safe. And she was—she was!

The certainty was like a glass of wine, the blood coming back to her heart, her pulse steadying. Kelleen had ridden on, never pausing; she could hear the dull thud of his horse's hoofs in the sand, until the sound died away in the distance. And Meager stood there, revolver in hand, cursing impotently; finally leaping forward across the gully to where he could stare out over the edge of the bank toward where his enemy had disappeared. Neither man, then, had seen her; yet she dare not move, or attempt to change position; the slightest motion might mean betrayal. She shrank even closer in the shadow waiting. Would Meager stay there, or go away? In truth, of the two men she dreaded him the least, desiring the fellow so thoroughly as to have largely lost her fear—but Kelleen! She was actually afraid of him. If she had still retained any lingering doubt as to what he was, that doubt had entirely vanished during this conversation. The man had worn no mask talking with Bob Meager; made no attempt to disguise himself. She recognized him now as thief and border desperado, no better, probably, than those he associated with—and far more dangerous.

It seemed to Deborah as though that dimly outlined figure standing at the edge of the bank would never move. His actions, and certain muttered words, aroused her interest, and held her in concealment watching his every movement. The fellow purposed something—but what? Those surely were night glasses through which he searched the horizon, crossing from side to side of the ravine, and lying flat on the sand while sweeping the circle before him inch by inch. Evidently nothing was discovered to awaken suspicion, for he came back to his horse and loosened a long rope coiled about the saddle pommel, and with this on his arm, tramped down the gully, within a yard of where she lay, his figure fading almost instantly into the darker shadows below.

At that moment the girl scarcely conceived what his mission might be. Her whole mind seemed to concentrate on the opportunity for escape which his absence offered. She arose crouching upon her feet, yet hesitated an instant, feeling a sudden curiosity to learn what Meager might be searching for. He could not go far, for the ravine ended abruptly against a rock wall. She had a mental picture of the scene. Good G—d! could the man be seeking after that narrow opening through which she had just escaped? Could it be possible he knew of its presence there? where it led? the secret of that mysterious tunnel in the cliff?

The opportunity to escape was now open; Meager had entirely disappeared in the darkness; she could no longer even distinguish the sound of the man's movements, while his horse, saddled and bridled, stood unguarded not a dozen yards away. Yet the girl lingered, waiting to assure herself as to the real nature of the fellow's mission.

Forth from the darkness to her strained ears came the sound of a low whistle, a peculiar note resembling the call of a wild bird, quite evidently a signal, as it was repeated three times. To Deborah's imagination the whistler must be bending above the orifice in the rock. There was a pause, the desert silence profound and then again the same signal impatiently given. Apparently there was no response of any nature from below, and Meager lost control of his caution, for he burst forth in a string of oaths, ending this tirade by calling down into the hole, his voice muffled as though he had inserted his head as far as possible within the narrow opening. The words came back indistinctly, occasionally lost.

"Below there! you Manuel! Answer me, you d—n dog! This is Bob; do you hear By G—d, the fool must be asleep. I'll skin you alive if you fail me now. What the h—l does this mean?"

He apparently stood up, or at least lifted his head from out the aperture, for the voice sounded clearer to Deborah. The change startled her so she sprang to her feet, ready for escape before he could return, yet waited another instant, breathless, poised for flight.

"I—n the luck!" growled Meager to himself, unconsciously aloud, "when I want the fool he fails me. By G—d! something must be wrong, but what the h—l can I do? I got to find out what's up—that's sure; an' there ain't but one way o' doin' it; I got to git down below, an' d—n quick, too, before Cassebeer gets here."

Deborah paused no longer. He was coming back; there was no other way if he intended going down the cliff. She ran swiftly through the dark, reckless of the scraggy sage, desperate to attain the horse. The man must have heard her, had some intimation of movement in the black night, for he gave utterance to a startled oath, and his feet crunched in the sand. But he was already too late, too far behind. In a moment more she frightened girl had gripped the bridle rein, flinging it back over the animal's head, and, in spite of his backing away, startled by her sudden appearance, had, in sheer desperation of terror, scrambled into the saddle. The horse wheeled sharply about, maddened by the flap of her skirt, and leaped forward, straight across the gully and up the sharp incline opposite. Her eyes caught one glimpse of the man's figure, dim, indistinct, grotesque, racing toward them; then he fired twice, the red glare lighting up the night. The next instant they were over the top, speeding frantically into the inky blackness of the desert night, no sound but the slinging of the animal's hoofs in the soft sand.

She had escaped; she was free! Nothing else mattered. Meager's hasty shots had failed; neither she nor the horse had been touched. Now he was back there helpless on foot, while she was free and in saddle. But where should she ride? in which direction? where was safety to be found before daylight? She drew the horse down to a walk, and studied the stars overhead in an endeavor to determine even the points of the compass.

Was that a sound—there to her left? She stared, half conscious of a deeper shadow looming, yet uncertain, checking the sudden spring of her horse. Then she knew, but too late; the black thunderbolt rushed upon her, and a man, leaning from his saddle, had clasped her arm, even as he jerked his own mount almost on its haunches.

"No shooting, please!" a voice said a bit sternly. "It is you, then?" She suppressed a scream which almost escaped her lips, but her answer faltered.

"You thought it was I, then? You were seeking after me?"

"Of course; people scarcely meet by chance here—in this desert and darkness."

"But why, may I ask, should we meet by either chance or otherwise?"

"Inclination may have had something to do with that, and a desire to serve. Am I not somewhat responsible in your case?"

"I do not care to acknowledge any such responsibility. I prefer now to go my own way alone. Do you understand?"

"You mean those words just as they sound?" he asked, releasing his grasp of her arm, yet only lowering his hand to her horse's rein.

"The words certainly express my meaning exactly, Mr. Kelleen. Why do you retain hold of that rein?"

"To prevent any attempt on your part to ride away," he acknowledged, a slight coldness in his tone, "at least until we understand each other better. I had up to this minute supposed you were endeavoring to escape from that fellow back yonder; now I learn you were running away from me also. Is that the truth?"

She hesitated; then courage returned.

"I fear you more even than I do Bob Meager," she answered honestly, "and despise you more."

"That is a pleasant statement. I wonder if I really deserve it? You think I deserted you? left you unnecessarily? First listen to my explanation—yes, you must; I shall not let you go until you do. Will you listen to me?"

"I know of no way to avoid doing so; but I prefer that you release my horse."

His fingers relaxed their hold on the rein, and he straightened up facing her.

"I trust you," he said simply. "You are better mounted than I, and armed, but I will not believe you look upon me altogether as a villain. You had confidence in me last night—did you not?"

"Yes—last night. I was desperate, afraid, and—and I accepted all you told me."

"I am the same man now," he said earnestly. "I am Daniel Kelleen, just as ready to prove my friendship now as then. You do not believe that?"

"No, I do not; I cannot. Last night I accepted your assistance from necessity. I had to escape that ranch before daylight, and you offered the only chance. I—I did not know who you were then—only in a vague way. I rather accepted you as an American cowboy, and—and you made me trust you."

"During our night ride, you mean?"

"Yes, you told me a little about yourself; perhaps it was not true, but you made me think it was, and I gained confidence in you in spite—in spite of your—your reputation."

"I see—the 'Frisco Kid' business. That was a little off color, wasn't it? If I remember right you got my history principally from 'Pop' Reynolds, with all embellishments thrown in. Yet, nevertheless, you managed to like me? Is that it?"

"I had to trust you then. I tried to believe all you told me, and—and you were nice."

"Good enough; and then what?"

"It was not because you left me. I thought I understood that; you were seeking to save me from discovery. Yet even then I was not sure, not as confident in you as when we were alone together. Sanchez was too friendly, too willing to acknowledge your leadership, and obey your orders—and—and you knew too much about what was going on here. You told me a very interesting story. Mr. Daniel Kelleen, which I now know to be false."

Kelleen made no movement, and for the moment no answer.

"You have lied to me, haven't you?"

"I prefer learning first why you reach this conclusion," he replied calmly. "Does it come from my conversation with Juan Sanchez?"

"It began there. I could scarcely help suspecting you after listening to what you had to say to that Mexican outlaw. You are out here not so much in my protection, but as the representative of Bob Meager. I am merely your plaything en route."

"You are indeed complimentary. Did I serve Meager, you think, by running off with his wife?"

"There is no law or decency on this border where any woman is concerned," she burst out bitterly. "I have at least learned that. I do not know your real object; only that you are one of this disreputable gang; that you come here to serve its purposes; that I was therefore only an incident—to be lied to, and laughed at."

"You reached this conclusion from what you overheard of the talk between Sanchez and myself? Of course I knew you were there."

"Exactly, and did not even care. Your very insolence was an insult. You believed me then entirely in your power. You could sit calmly there on your horse, laugh and sneer, and I dare do nothing to protect myself. Then you rode off, and left me—your last glance one of insolent triumph. It was then I fully realized that I was only your victim—I was afraid of you, and I hated you then."

"His voice was very low, very quiet. You lost all faith? You attempted to run away, and hide from me before I could return?"

"I attempted to get away—yes. I could not remain there; it would be better to die on the desert. But—but I am not wholly sure I had lost all faith. Nothing was quite clear, but—but I was afraid of you. You had lied to me; I could not trust myself alone with you any longer. But since then I have lost all faith—do you know why?"

"I could not remain there; it would be better to die on the desert. But—but I am not wholly sure I had lost all faith. Nothing was quite clear, but—but I was afraid of you. You had lied to me; I could not trust myself alone with you any longer. But since then I have lost all faith—do you know why?"

If One Can Believe Rumors Shelby May Be Jack's Finis

By Norman E. Brown
The coming heavyweight shindig between Thomas Gibbons of St. Paul and William Harrison Dempsey of Salt Lake City and New York has now reached the jolly stage of rumors.

These rumors take the following twist right now:

First Dempsey is in poor condition, and isn't training seriously enough to bring himself into perfect form for the challenger.

Second, his sparring partner, George "Kid" Godfrey, has shown the world that Dempsey isn't invincible by knocking him on the button for a knockout in training.

That's that.

The rumor concerning Dempsey's poor condition goes on to state that he is over weight and not making the necessary moves to cut off the excess poundage. His inability to handle firmly well meaning friends who wish to entertain him in the bask in the light of his smile is said to be the cause.

Such rumors always precede a bout—especially after the champ has reigned for a few years. Carriers of such rumors can point to the years of ease and plenty and the ordinary hatred of training to bolster up the story.

In this instance it may be the truth or it may be clever propaganda to bolster up the Gibbons backers to make the betting odds better. It may also be intentional—dished out in an effort to make Gibbons overconfident and put him off his guard.

As to the knockout at the hands of his negro aid. That's the hoakum. A sparring partner has plenty of opportunities to slip over a k. o. wallop during a workout if he cares to double-cross the man who is paying his bills. Asked to play for the champ's stomach to strengthen those muscles, Godfrey or any other hard-hitter might time a perfect wallop to the jaw.

It is doubtful whether Dempsey or any other fighter would retain an aid with such a treacherous disposition, however. And Godfrey's still in Dempsey's camp.

There is this about the situation, however. Dempsey is young. Has young ideas. Life is sweet to him. His wealth came quickly, easily as fortunes come. He has been idle two years. It would take an exceptionally strong willed and level-headed gent under these conditions to hold himself in top-notch condition and then, overnight, lay aside his life of ease to plunge into the grind of a training scize.

Only those who can take a look at Dempsey themselves as the bout nears will be satisfied as to his condition. The others will form opinions—and bet by them.

at any time contributed to the purchase of any of the leases nor to the drilling operations, but had, as a matter of fact, purchased the leases for "many times less than half" the money contributed by the Pennsylvania group, and were not entitled to any share of ownership in the properties. They were accordingly ordered turned over to the Pittsburgh ministers, George Hock and M. E. Cull, Pittsburg cousin of the Oklahoma Cull brothers.

Decision Of Judge In Alleged Oil Graft Is Held By Supreme Court

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 22.—How six Pennsylvania ministers and one layman, all of Pittsburgh, lost $7,800 in an oil field confidence game, and later were recouped when the Tulsa county district court presented them all the assets of two Oklahoma oil men, who owned several producing wells, was told in a decision by the state supreme court.

Before relating the story, the opinion affirmed the decision of the Tulsa court in a suit brought against M. E. Cull, E. C. Cull, and the Cull Oil company; a corporation, by George Hock, the layman, and the following Pittsburgh ministers, according to the opinion. He was named with the other Culls when the suit was first brought, but the Tulsa court held he should partake with the ministers in the settlement.

In the supreme court opinion, Judge Owen of Tulsa was quoted as having said, at the trial in his court:

"The conduct of M. E. Cull has been unpeppery corrupt, the conduct of Emmet Cull has been worse."

"This is in some respects the dirtiest case I have ever had anything to do with, and all the dirt comes from the Oklahoma Cull side of it, every single bit of it, and the Cull Oil company, as organized and operating, was little if any better than a plain attempt at theft."

Court's Decision Told.

The story as told by the court's decision was as follows: The group of Pittsburgh ministers became interested in Oklahoma oil when M. E. Cull appeared with his cousin, M. B. Cull, and explained that he was a successful oil man who had made a fortune in Oklahoma. He offered to provide one-fourth of a small amount of capital, M. B. Cull to provide another fourth and the group to raise the other half. He was to purchase a lease for $2,400, and to hold it in the names of all the contributors to the fund.

M. B. Cull and the Pittsburg group raised $1,800, according to the review of the case. They turned the money over to M. E. Cull, who purchased a lease for $100, and was said to have pocketed the remainder. Instead of taking the lease in the joint name of all contributors, M. E. Cull took it in his own name, it was alleged.

The next suggestion was that a well be drilled on the lease, and M. E. Cull reported that operation would cost $3,000. He proposed that contributions be on the same basis as before, and pledged himself to put in $800. He collected $2,400.

Then Cull proposed that instead of drilling on the lease he had bought, he drill on a lease adjoining it, for a half interest in that lease. The group of ministers agreed.

The next suggestion, just as the

The Right Shortening is Important

SO much depends upon it. Whether your cake, your biscuits or muffins shall be light and tender, or whether they will turn out tough and soggy is often determined by the shortening you use. Mrs. Tucker's Shortening is a pure vegetable shortening. It is light and easily digested. It makes pastries and hot breads always tender and delicious.

Thousands of women are learning the satisfaction of always using a pure, dependable shortening. Mrs. Tucker's never gives a lardy taste to food. In frying, it browns food crisply and delicately. It costs no more than ordinary shortening and can be used again and again.

COLLEGE NOTES

By Roy McKeown

East Central had as a visitor today Mr. Frank M. Leavitt, associate superintendent of schools at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and special instructor at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Leavitt lectured today to groups of advanced college students on the philosophy of vocation education and its place in the public school. He was brought here through the courtesy of the state board of vocational education.

So crowded are the accommodations at the school that Mr. Leavitt was forced to deliver his message several times in order that all the students might have an opportunity to hear him.

All of the recent visitors here, especially those holding state offices in educational work, commented favorably on the spirit of the institution and the orderly conduct of the student body, according to President Linscheid.

A feature of the school events of the coming week will be an entertainment given the special members of the summer faculty by the regular members of that body.

In general from now to the close of the summer session there will be fewer special entertainments brought here that might divert the attention of the students from their regular routine of school work, President Linscheid states.

Archer Abbott, Jr., is at the present time assisting in the office work.

THREE RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT STATE BOARD MEET

Three resolutions affecting the teachers colleges were passed by the state board at its regular meeting. The substance of the resolutions was as follows:

The first resolution provides that on and after July 1, 1923 the state teachers' colleges are authorized to reorganize their training schools on the plan of the junior high school. East Central has already made plans for such a reorganization beginning next year. Mr. John Zimmerman and Miss Stella Watson will be in charge of the department.

Mr. Zimmerman is now at Peabody college in Tennessee taking special work in the organization of junior high school work.

The second resolution provides that on and after September 1, 1923 the teachers' colleges are authorized to offer commercial courses. These are for the purpose of preparing teachers for high school departments of the state. The local school is preparing to offer such courses.

The third resolution provides that beginning with September 1, 1923 the teachers' colleges are to drop the ninth grade of work, in 1924 the tenth grade, in 1925 the eleventh grade, and in 1926 the twelfth grade. The preparatory department will be eliminated a year at a time, providing that those already engaged in teaching and who are over eighteen years of age will be taken care of in special classes.

Teachers Take Advantage Of Conference of Rural District School Leaders

East Central Teachers College yesterday closed its two-day rural conference. The objective of this conference, held annually, is to bring about improvement of the rural schools of Oklahoma.

The state department of education has three objectives in its efforts to bring about this improvement. The first is to consolidate schools wherever possible. The second is to bring one room schools up to the standards set by the department, and the third to bring about the complete removal of illiteracy.

Among the speakers who took part in the program was Miss Victoria Lyles, formerly county superintendent of Wagoner county, and now assistant state rural school inspector. Miss Lyles has the distinction of having established more model one room schools in Wagoner county than exist in any other county.

Wagoner county now has twenty-two of these schools, in contrast to sixty counties which have no model schools. Johnson with eleven and Okmulgee with nine lead this district.

Miss Lyles outlined the ways and means of standardizing small schools, showing that this could be accomplished even in districts with poor financial support. She also reviewed the work of consolidation in Oklahoma.

Duke Is Speaker Here. Mr. E. A. Duke, state rural school inspector, explained the circumstances under which consolidation is advisable, mentioning Jackson and Greer counties in which all schools are consolidated. In this district Johnson with eleven and Okmulgee with nine lead the district.

Tom W. Smith, former county superintendent at Quapaw, explained the method of alternation of studies in rural schools and gave an analysis of the factors entering into the makeup of a good rural school.

State Superintendent M. A. Nash emphasized the necessity of improving rural schools, pointing out that the most important educational work now facing the state lies in this line of improvement, and that the state department is now working toward that end. Mr. Nash also acted as chairman of the meeting and succeeded in arousing much enthusiasm.

Superintendent T. T. Montgomery of Chickasha and member of the state board called attention to the fact that rural schools must have more financial aid and that the best way to secure adequate support was through a blanket levy of statewide nature.

New Department Installed. East Central college recently installed a department of rural education which co-operates with the state board and county superintendents. Every county in this district with the exception of one was represented by its county superintendent or superintendent elect. State officers expressed the belief that this was the most successful rural school conference ever held in Oklahoma in which all the speakers were associated with the public schools of the state.

The program was enlivened with music by the band, assembly singing under Miss Margery Ballard, a vocal solo by Oscar Parker, and three selections by the male quartet of the college.

On Wednesday a luncheon was held at the Harris hotel in honor of the county superintendents of the district. Mr. Nash and E. A. Duke declared that it was the best conference of county superintendents from the standpoint of percentage of attendance and of enthusiasm that has yet been held during their administration.

The superintendents present at the luncheon were: E. R. Lankster, McClain; Mason Hart, Garvin; Miss Chaney, Pottawatomie; S. P. Hendricks, Murray; J. M. Cushmanberry, Coal; A. Floyd, Pontotoc; Alice Means, Hughes; Luther Poterfield, Seminole; and Oscar Darter, Johnson.

Speakers were former state superintendent R. L. Wilson, present Superintendent Nash, E. A. Duke, Tom Smith, Miss Lyles, and President Linscheid.

A good story comes from Russia of how socialism vs individualism works out in actual practice. It is said that the printers who turned out the paper money for the government demanded an increase in wages. This was denied them and they asked that they be permitted to work an extra hour every day for themselves, they to receive for their own use the money printed in that hour. This was agreed to with the proviso that no bills larger than 100 rubles be printed during that hour. However, it was not long until it was found that the printers were turning out more money during the hour that was their own than they did the entire eight hours they did the entire eight hours they worked for the government. It made a difference whether they were working for themselves or for the public.

Advocates of the doctrine of protection point gleefully to the enormous revenues that are coming in from the Republican tariff law. We could point out with just as much reason the enormous amount of taxes in other forms that are collected, and with which are causing widespread complaint. In both cases it is a tax that the people are paying but in the case of the tariff they don't realize it when they pay it. All kinds of commodities have been advancing in price since the tariff law became effective, notably sugar, but the stand-patters always come forward with an explanation that proves an alibi for the tariff. Other taxes cause complaint because they involve digging down into the family sock and paying the hard cash over to the collector.

West Virginia, like Oklahoma, has lost out in an attempt to retain the natural gas of the state for use within its borders, the Supreme Court of the United States deciding against the state's contentions. One of Governor Haskell's first acts after being inaugurated as chief executive of Oklahoma, was to attempt to apply drastic prohibitions of gas exportation, but the federal courts decided that the state had no such authority.

It is all right to insist that the government be run on business principles and demand a business administration, but when a representative of the people attempts to put the demand into practice, he generally hears a different story, for he is expected to get a share of the pork whether there is any justification for it or not. By the time the pork has been passed around business principles are lost sight of.

Silver may come back into its own due to the fact that there is not enough gold to supply the world's demands. Silver which has been used as money for centuries, may be called on to make good the difference. This fiat money being printed in trillions of dollars by various European governments, is so nearly worthless that no one wants to be bothered with it. Perhaps Bryan's dream of 1896 may yet be realized.

The revival spirit in Ada seems to be gaining. Recently the First Christian church and the First Methodist and the Asbury Methodist have held revivals. The Nazarenes are starting a revival today, the Church of Christ on East Main has a meeting under way, and the First Baptist is to start one Sunday. It is a favorable sign when a city gets interested in religion.

We are informed that all of the churches of Ada will probably in the near future launch a concerted effort to get everybody in Sunday School on a given Sunday. It would be good advertising as well as good religion, it seems to us, for Ada to have five- six or seven thousand people in Sunday School at one time. We hope the ministers will get together on the idea and push it through.

Prospects for a bridge across the Canadian river are getting brighter, reports indicate. With a bridge across this barrier, Ada will benefit from the trade and traffic north of here. We can visit the folks to the north and have them visit us. Nothing makes for business so much as personal contact, and the highway is the connecting link at this time.

The Panama canal is gradually coming into its own and the traffic showing a steady increase. It cost Uncle Sam a pretty penny to build this great piece of engineering, but it was badly needed and is justifying the hopes held out for it when it was started many years ago.

The single tax may be a proper solution of the problem of supporting the government, but the statesman who can figure out a system whereby not a single tax will be necessary will be acclaimed the world's greatest benefactor.

Corpus Christi, Texas, is to be a deep water port, according to plans of the government. An appropriation is now available for the work and the town hopes to rival Galveston within a few years.

Knocking a good man down and keeping him down are two vastly different matters.

(By the Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—Eleven pilots have signified their intention of competing in the national balloon race which starts here July 6, according to Blaine McGrath, promotion director of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the race will be held. There probably will be one or two added starters.

Thousands Visit Gothenburg Fair as Annual Event

(By the Associated Press)
GOTHENBURG, Sweden.—Fifty thousand visitors a day, many of them from far corners of the globe are seeing the Jubilee Exposition in Gothenburg.

What impresses the visitors most, aside from the architectural beauty of the exposition buildings, is the iron, steel, and machinery section of the Export Exhibit. Never before in all its various aspects been so graphically represented. From the mining of the ore, represented in an artificial mine, through the various processes of steel making, and into such typical Swedish manufactures as ball bearings, micrometers, fine cutlery, cream separators, turbines, oil motors, artillery, etc., the story is illustrated with great vividness.

Winnipeg is to have a large office building for the exclusive use of physicians and dentists.

FOR BOYS ONLY
(Wichita Falls Times)

This editorial is written for all lads who are just striking out in the world for themselves.

You will get a lot of hard bumps in the next few years. They will seem harder to you than they really are. The reason they will seem harder is that your parents' up to now have been taking these bumps for you—sheltering you against them. This happens in all generations, and later you will do the same for your children.

As time rolls on, you will become calloused to these hard knocks. Like going barefoot—at first it hurts the tender feet, but you soon get used to it.

So don't get discouraged. Keep in mind that, as it takes hard work to develop your muscles, so also it takes quite a bit of rough treatment to "bring you out"—to develop your courage and resourcefulness, to enable you to handle power wisely and responsibly sanely.

Many of the greatest heartaches of life come in those tender years when we strike out in the world for ourselves. Later you will realize that the heartaches were mountains made out of molehills.

So keep your courage, don't allow anything to dishearten you.

As you go on through life you will find two distinct classes of people. One will go out of its way to help you, to give the guiding directions that it learned by bitter experience. Pay close attention to these people, especially the old. They know the shortcuts to take and the pitfalls to avoid.

The others are plain nasty in varying degrees. At times they'll seem to be in the majority. They are the people who make life disagreeable and wretched for themselves as well as others. As a rule they are diseased, either mentally or physically. In this class you'll find the cranky boss, the inconsiderate stranger, also the vulture.

HEIDELBERG TO GET HELP FROM ABROAD

HEIDELBERG—Faculty and students of Heidelberg University are rejoicing over the announcement that the institution will receive 50,000 English pounds from the estate of the late Dr. Mond, who founded one of the leading chemical houses in England and is the father of Sir Alfred Mond, who was a member of the Lloyd George cabinet. Dr. Mond was born in Germany, but became a British subject.

Heidelberg is one of the most international of the German institutions of higher education. It had 2,500 students during the term which recently closed, about ten percent of whom were foreigners.

Of these, Switzerland led with 47 students, a majority of whom were taking law courses. North and South America sent six students, England had 12, Greece 11, Bulgaria 13 and Japan 16, 13 of whom were studying philosophy.

Would Utilize Japanese Tides. KOBE, Japan.—Dr. Okada, of the Kobe Marine Observatory, believes there are great possibilities in the utilization of the rushing tides of the Inland Sea for commercial purposes, and has asked the government to establish a tide station here.

The complicated conformations of the land cause strange irregularities in the tides about the coast of Japan, and these Dr. Okada says never have been thoroughly investigated.

A Personal Word to Members and Friends of the First Baptist Church:-

Our meeting begins Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church and evening service will be held under the skating rink tent on East Main near Hale-Halsell Grocery Co.'s building and each evening thereafter for two or three weeks. It was thought best not to use Chautauqua grounds but get a place more centrally located.

We will have a large chorus choir under the direction of Mr. Frank McCravy of Laurens, South Carolina, who is one of the best musical directors in the entire country and is said to be the greatest soloist among all the choir directors among Southern Baptists. He also knows how to handle great groups of children in chorus. Two pianos will be used throughout the meeting; Mrs. J. H. Bond will preside at one and Miss Murray Lucas at the other and thus the music promises to be a great feature of the meeting. This is to cordially invite all who sing to get in the choir and help out.

The pastor of the First Baptist church will do the preaching at the request of a number of the members of the church. He hopes and expects to have the hearty co-operation of the entire membership in this special campaign for winning the lost to our Blessed Savior. He is going to throw himself into this meeting with all his soul and if every one who reads these lines will do that, seeking the guidance of the Holy Spirit, we will have such a revival meeting as Ada has not seen for years. God is still on His throne and is will to lead as ever if His people will only submit themselves to Him.

On Sunday evening at 8 o'clock lets have just as large crowd present as possible, and let's resolve that we will not miss a single service during the entire meeting. Let anyone who has a car and whose own family does not fill it, look around his neighborhood and find enough people to fill it and bring a load every evening. Several have already told the pastor that they expected to bring loaded cars every night.

Praying God's richest blessings upon all the people of Ada and that we may have a great ingathering of the lost, I am,

Yours in His name,

WOOD HAS PLAN FOR PAGAN KLAN

Non-Christian Population of Philippines Included in Economic Move.

MANILA—Governor General Wood has taken steps to bring about the economic development of the Mountain Province where the people, who belong to the non-Christian tribes, are engaged in what the chief executive terms "a desperate struggle for a bare existence." In a communication to Jose Sanvictores, director of the bureau of non-Christian tribes, General Wood asks that a plan be prepared which would eliminate the handicaps to the economic improvement of those regions.

The governor's communication to Mr. Sanvictores is based on a report submitted by Lieutenant Colonel Gordon Johnston, member of the governor's staff, who has just made an inspection of the Mountain Province in company with Colonel Edward L. Munson, United States army.

General Wood in his communication says:

"I have always been very much concerned about the economic development of these people. In the course of 2,000 years they have been able to reclaim from their mountains a limited area of land to which water can be brought. In past years feudal strife between settlements and tribes, as well as a very high death rate, prevented undue increase in population.

"However, with the restoration of law and order and the development of hygiene, sanitation, services of hospitals and doctors, the population has been continually increasing without a corresponding increase of arable land. At present the mass of the population is engaged in a desperate struggle for bare existence. In the majority of districts there is not sufficient rice, and the people eke out a very meager existence with sweet potatoes. They lack clothing, proper shelter, salt and the tools necessary in their labor. I am informed that prices for necessities in the stores throughout the Mountain Province average from 200 to 1,000 percent above those that prevail in the nearby lowlands."

The governor general recommends that means of promoting trade between the mountain people and the inhabitants of the lowlands be created and that inter-communication be encouraged.

Gothenburg Sweden, will hold its sports program July 15 in conjunction with the tercentenary celebration. The games will take place in the new stadium which will seat 19,000.

GOATS FROM CHICAGO TO SAVE NORTHERN BABIES

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Grenfell mission in Labrador needs goats to supply milk to preserve infant life, and the herds of some Chicago millionaires are being assessed to meet the demand. Mrs. James A. Patten and Charles A. Stevens are among those who have contributed pure bred animals.

It has been said that the lives of 500,000 babies could be saved annually in the United States if the infants could have goats' milk, which comes nearest to mothers' milk. Goats' milk sells at about 40 cents a quart, and even at this price it is hard to get.

RUSSELL HERE SOON IN "THE GREAT NIGHT"

When "The Great Night," a William Fox photoplay starring William Russell, comes to the American theatre on Friday the patrons of the theatre will see Russell at his best, according to advance reports. The story written by Joseph F. Poland, gives Russell all the opportunities he could desire to display his histrionic ability.

In this picture Russell is cast as the son of a millionaire jeweler. His father dies, and according to the terms of the will the young man must marry within a month. Desiring to escape the numerous offers of matrimony which follow the announcement of the contents of the will, the heir seeks out his friend the police commissioner and obtains employment as a patrolman. Russell is rapidly leaving behind the western pictures in which he was formerly featured and is fast becoming familiarly identified with the modern type of story.

In supporting cast are Eva Novak, Winifred Bryson, Henry Barrows, Wade Boteler, Harry Lonsdale and Earl Metcalfe. Howard M. Mitchell directed the production.

New Cotton Grades Taught
Stillwater—The A. and M. College Cotton School, to be held from July 2 to July 28, will be one of the first schools in the United States to teach the new cotton grades which will become effective August first.

The cotton school has been held at the College for the last ten years but under the new plans there will be more cotton samples available than ever before and sufficient instructors to give personal supervision to all students. The cotton school will be under the direction of Glen Briggs, who is in charge of the cotton work at the A. and M. College, but representatives from the United States Bureau of Markets and men who have been in the employ of some of the largest cotton concerns in America will give instructional work in addition to the regular college staff.

NEW WOMAN M. P. IS HONORED

Mrs. Hilton Philipson being saluted by members of guard of honor at house of parliament.
Mrs. Hilton Philipson, newest woman member of the British House of Commons, has taken up her new duties. She was accorded signal honors on her arrival at the parliament building.

The work is particularly adapted for the farmer and the farm boy as it not only teaches how to class cotton by actually grading and stapling the lint, but the importance of handling the crop from the field on through the gin is stressed. By this means, one may know how to raise the quality so that it is improved from one to two or even three grades and receive the extra profit in selling the better lint.

Of special importance to buyers and sellers will be the new standard grades, upon which all cotton sold in or shipped from the United States must be classed. The old grades will be void after July 1 and the new grades will be effective August 1. These new grades will be taught in the summer cotton school in order to prepare everyone for the coming cotton crop. Certificates will be given to students who are proficient in classing cotton.

Mulching Tomatoes

"Where your tomatoes are not to be thoroughly cultivated, mulching is a good substitute," says D. C. Mooring, extension horticulturist, Oklahoma A. and M. College. "It consists merely of adding a layer of three or four inches of straw over the ground between and around the tomato plants. This mulch will prevent the growth of grass and weeds, holds the tomatoes up off the dirt to prevent rot and at the same time keeps the food conditions more nearly normal and in his way tends to prevent the stem end rot, which is quite common in this state where there are abrupt changes in weather conditions. This mulch will also enable you to get around over the ground to better advantage in case of wet weather."

END OF ENGLISH BETTING FAR OFF

Committee Reports Laws to Restrict Betting is now Unpopular.

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON.—The special committee appointed to help the government decide whether it will pay to tax betting, held another public sitting recently and examined several police officials. Their testimony was against it.

Mr. Caldwell, police superintendent of Liverpool, said the betting law was very difficult to enforce and very unpopular. Its inconsistencies and loopholes were so numerous that in practice it amounted to one law for the well-to-do, who could bet on credit without incurring any risk of getting fined or imprisoned, and another for the poor who, because of their poverty, had to confine themselves to ready money betting which meant street betting and were liable to get into trouble if they were caught at it. In Liverpool $40,000 a year was spent in efforts to enforce the law against betting and the result had been a total failure.

Theyor Bingham, assistant commissioner of the metropolitan police, said a striking development of late years had been the increase of betting among women of the poorer classes. London was so riddled with street betting that to deal with it effectively would require a very much larger number of police than could be made available without prohibitive expenditure. The police felt, he said, that even if the repressive law were enacted in a clear and more drastic form it was almost certain, having regard to the strength and extent of the task for betting, that some means of evading it on a large scale always would be found.

Mr. Bingham's views on betting are entirely at variance with those expressed by the majority of the spokesmen of various religious bodies that have appeared before the committee.

EFFICIENCY AID TO PUBLIC SICK

Would Apply Scientific Management to Public Health Departments.

(By the Associated Press)
SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 22.—Application of scientific management to public health work was advocated by John A. Kingsbury of New York, in an address today before the National Tuberculosis Association now in session in this city. Mr. Kingsbury announced also that the Milbank Fund, of which he is director, is completing plans to spend between $300,000 and $500,000 annually for the next five years in New York state in cooperation with the health authorities in an effort to reduce the death rate for all causes.

Cattaraugus County has been selected as a typical rural and urban area, and Syracuse as a typical city area in which intensive demonstration will be carried on. A district of 200,000 population will also soon be selected in New York City. In these three areas of 500,000 population, the Milbank Fund will carry on the largest and broadest health demonstration ever attempted in the United States. Commenting upon the plans for the demonstration, Mr. Kingsbury said:

"In the course of the next five or ten years, in these typical American communities, we shall endeavor to determine the extent to which the general death rate can be further reduced, and which diseases most readily yield to intensive effort. We shall try to determine whether it is possible practically to eliminate certain of these diseases, such as diphtheria and typhoid, and further substantially to reduce the extent of tuberculosis; we shall utilize all known methods of proven value and shall attempt to devise better ones and to measure and test the effect of each, and, most important of all, we shall endeavor to determine what it will cost these typical communities to do a hundred percent health job. We shall attempt to apply scientific management to public health work; to determine the cost of each specific project, and to keep the cost down to the minimum per capita rate consistent with efficiency."

Great Britain has completed 431 new cemeteries and is working on twice as many more.

"WORSE THAN PAIN"

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin. I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well. I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself."

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart."

"This nervous condition was worse than pain."

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it."

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well."

"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition."

"If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, you, too, should find Cardui helpful for your troubles."

A rising interest in the chautauqua was noticed at the closing performance.

We wonder why those naughty easterners still contend that we know little of modern civilization, when we still cling to the native habits of ignoring such things as chairs.

Swish! Up went the curtain, and on masse the audience, from the first to the noisy section past the tenth row, left their seats with more zeal than demonstrated when the national anthem is played.

The stage being low it was of times difficult for the fellow, who arrived in time for the back seat rehearsals, to note whether the hero was really displaying his affection on the rouge-countenanced leading lady or whether sleepy wife and husband in the audience had forgotten the breach of several years and fondling with their affections again.

The general comment on the play during the time it was being attempted showed that there was some interest with those lingering about the sides of the tent, owing to the noise coming in that general direction.

Some have contended that similar entertainments should bear the handle of Chatterbox.

ENID.—Virtually all the wheat raised in Garfield county this year has been cut, according to H. A. Graham, county agricultural agent. Fifteen combination machines, which cut and thresh the wheat at the same time, were used on about half the wheat acreage of the county, he said.

PREVENTABLE DISEASES CLAIM THOUSANDS TOLL

(By the Associated Press)

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 22.—There are over 400,000 deaths in the United States every year from preventable diseases," said Dr. William F. Snow of New York in addressing the National Tuberculosis Association today. "The death rate from such diseases as tuberculosis, syphilis, gonorrhea, infantile diarrhea, typhoid fever and others have declined largely as a result of the application of scientific knowledge and community organization. The next forward step in further life saving in this country must come through more effective co-ordination of existing health agencies."

"In addition to the officially constituted health officers in various states and cities throughout the country, there are from twenty to fifty different voluntary health agencies, each striving to get over a particular program. To reduce the death rate from preventable diseases to a practical minimum there must be a getting together of these organizations."

"This is a task which the National Health Council has set for itself. Already very definite steps have been taken in this direction by the national health agencies, including the American Social Hygiene Association, National Committee for Mental Hygiene, National Organization for Public Health Nursing, National Tuberculosis Association, American Public Health Association."

tion, American Red Cross Conference of State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America, Council on Health and Public Instruction of the American Medical Association, the American Society for the Control of Cancer, and a number of other associated national agencies."

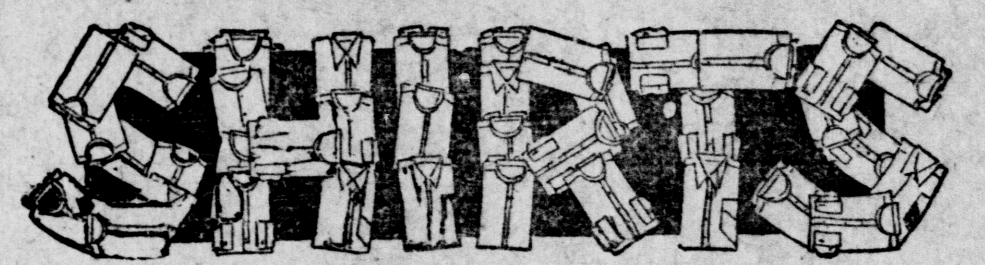

S.S.S. keeps away Pimples

THERE are thousands of women who wonder why their complexions do not improve in spite of all the face treatments they use. They should not continue to wonder. Eruptions come from blood impurities and a lack of rich blood-cells. S.S.S. is acknowledged to be one of the most powerful, rapid and effective blood cleansers known. S.S.S. builds new blood-cells. This is why S.S.S. routs out of your system the impurities which cause boils, pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash. S.S.S. is a remarkable flesh-builder. That's why underweight people can quickly build up their lost flesh, get back their normal weight, pink, plump cheeks, bright eyes, and "pep."

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.
